DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim s 10, 17, and 23 are recites the limitation "the dental anchoring member" in Claim 11, line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Branemark (EP 0599794 A2).

Branemark discloses an anchoring element for fixation in a first bone tissue and in a second bone tissue (figure 2), the first and second bone tissues being separated by non-bone tissue, the anchoring element being elongated (figure 3) and comprising an apex (see figure below) and a first fixation portion (2', figure 3) disposed at the apex, both adapted for fixation in the first bone tissue, a basis (see figure below), and a second fixation portion (3', figure 3) disposed at said basis and adapted for fixation in the second bone tissue, and an intermediate portion (see figure below) positionable in the non-bone tissue separating the first and second bone tissues, wherein the second fixation portion has the form of a truncated cone (figure 3) having a smaller basis adjacent to the intermediate portion and a larger basis forming the basis of the anchoring element (figure 3); the first bone tissue is located in the os zygomaticum, and the second bone tissue is located in the maxilla (figure 2), and an anchoring element wherein an attachment means intended for a denture or a dental bridge is arranged at the basis of the anchoring element (page 4, lines 28-31) wherein the first fixation portion has the form of a truncated cone having the smaller basis adjacent to the apex and the larger basis adjacent to the intermediate portion (figure 3); the first and second fixation portions and the intermediate portion together have the form of a truncated cone having a smaller basis adjacent to the apex and a larger basis forming the basis of the anchoring element (figure 3); the first (5', figure 3) and second (4', figure 3) fixation portions are threaded wherein the second fixation portion comprises at least one recess (8, figure 1) transverse to the threads and disposed at the intermediate portion, comprising a distinct edge (see figure below) transverse to the threads, which edge provides a groove (see figure below) forming cutting unit (page 4, lines 16-18), and the intermediate portion has a smooth outer surface (figure 3, abstract, page 5, lines 4-7), and the outer surface of the intermediate portion, the surface limited by the valleys of the threads of the threaded first fixation portion, and the surface limited by the valleys of the threads of a threaded second fixation portion are portions of the envelope surface of the same truncated cone (figure 3). The attachment means further having an attachment hole (12, figures 1 and 3) and at least one contact surface (11, figure 1 and 3) for the denture or the dental bridge, and the attachment hole is arranged at an angle to the longitudinal axis of the dental anchoring unit (figures 1 and 3), and the end portion has a smooth outer surface (see figure below).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed August 26th, 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The applicant contends that the device of Branemark is not a truncated cone and is instead "substantially cylindrical". All cones are substantially cylindrical and the device shown in both figure 1 and figure 3 is indeed a truncated cone as shown below to better clarify the examiners stance. Further Branemark does indeed teach a distinct edge which provides a groove forming cutting unit as disclosed annotated figure attached above.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
